Day 2: warm-up stage north of Bogotá

A bus transfer takes us up to a nearby pass, where our bike adventure through northern Colombia starts. The air is thin because we're already breaking the 3,000 meter mark today. The gravel road meanders beautifully through the lovely valleys of the Eastern Cordilleras. The Cordilleras consist of three mountain ranges, also known as the foothills of the Andes. They run from Venezuela via Colombia to Chile and the highest peaks reach heights of well over 6000 m. The Colombian Cordilleras are characterized by wide plateaus and mountain ridges, and in some cases also volcanoes. The region is known for its craftsmanship, which is very present here. The beautiful clay souvenirs, some of which are colorfully painted, can be bought everywhere.

Day 3: Colonial town of Villa de Leyva

Today we explore the surroundings of Villa de Leyva with the bikes, which is used for wine and tomato cultivation, among other things. On the round trip we get to know the local highlights. We stroll over the uneven cobblestones through the lively streets of the historic city center, which consists entirely of colonial buildings from the 16th century. Arriving at the large Plaza Mayor, we are enchanted by the sight of the whitewashed houses with the red tiled roofs and in the background the Colombian Andes, which rise into the wide, steel-blue sky. We enjoy a fine coffee and who wants to visit the small pretty shops in the streets.

After a short ride in the accompanying bus, we begin our wonderful day's stage, which takes us down into the valley to Guadalupe. We enjoy a spectacular view of the mountain range Serranias de los Cobardes (mountains of the scaredy-cats). On the way we make a short detour to the idyllic "Las Gachas" swimming pools in a side arm of the Suarez River. The natural jacuzzis invite you to take a refreshing bath. Arrived in Guadalupe, there is time to explore the pretty village, in whose colonial center about 1500 people live.

With a bit of luck you can observe different birds in the Andean mountain forest. Small mountain villages line our way, and the mountains with the peaks of the Colombian Cordillera, some of which are more than 4000 meters high, form an impressive backdrop. Day 7: In the footsteps of the conquistadors

The bikes can hardly be tamed, they are impatiently awaiting the next stage. We have a lot to do today. The valley and gorge of the Rio Suárez await us. Many years ago, the Spanish conquistadors passed through here on their campaign of conquest against the local Muisca people. They came up into the Andes from the lowlands. We're going in the opposite direction, but forget about only going down, we're diligently collecting meters in altitude. Do you dread too many climbs? Our driver can help and looks forward to your company. The remote small town of Zapatoca is a welcome stage destination.

Day 8: In the gorge of the Rio Sogamoso

The Rio Suárez has merged with the river from the Chicamocha Canyon and now flows further through the Andes with the name Sogamoso. The gorge spreads out impressively in front of us, the river has dug deep. What fun to drive down the hairpin bends. But how was that old biker saying: where it goes down, there's also up? But we're full of energy and are tackling the challenge on the other side of the valley with enthusiasm. Who would have thought that after so much nature, we would be able to enjoy the advantages of the colonial city of Girón again tonight.

Day 9: On the Rio Magdalena

In order to bridge the huge distances in northern Colombia, we take a rest day today and, thanks to the bus and boat, reach Mompox without muscle power. Our adventure with the Chalupa begins in Barrancabermeja, as the sleek motorboat is called here, with which we travel the Rio Magdalena. We enjoy the atmospheric boat trip down the river and observe many birds and the changing impressions on the wide river. Around noon we land in the port of El Campo. The bus drives us through the scorching afternoon heat to Mompox, one of the historically most important colonial cities in Colombia. The place is isolated and quiet, in the middle of an aquatic landscape surrounded by shallow rivers and lagoons.

Day 10: Mompox Colonial Heritage

We explore the cozy town on foot and listen to the stories from the time of Simon Bolivar, who often visited here. The predominant architectural style shows Moorish and indigenous elements, with huge archways. The courtyards, decorated with tropical plants and fountains, are also very typical. No less impressive is the evening sundowner boat trip into the surrounding swamp landscape. Hundreds of birds and caimans let us marvel and experience nature in all its lushness. Who dares to jump into the cool water? And when the sun sets blood red...

Today is a unique challenge: If you want, you can start pedaling early in the morning, before sunrise, up to over 3000 meters and, with a bit of luck, catch a fantastic view of the snow-covered peaks of the Sierra Nevada. Alternatively, there is a tour of a coffee plantation and its production facility. Because we are in the middle of a coffee-growing region. And the «cafe colombiano» is simply excellent! The sea isn't far either, after which a rapid descent takes us down to sea level. Here in Taganga it's pure Caribbean!

With a bit of luck, we'll spot monkeys, capybaras and countless species of birds, including pelicans swooping into the water. Day 14: Through the hinterland to the mud volcano Totumo

We look forward to our last bike stage on the northern route, through the hinterland between Barranquilla and Cartagena. The mud volcano El Totumo offers us a very special experience. We climb the rim of the crater via a wooden staircase, from where we have a magnificent view of the lagoon landscape. In the warm mud of the crater we treat ourselves to a wellness bath and enjoy our appearance. Thanks to the bus, we can easily reach Cartagena, the pearl of the Caribbean. We have two days and nights to soak up the Caribbean flair and get to know the different facets of Cartagena, as well as the contrasts between the colonial old town and the modern skyline city.

Cartagena, the unsurpassed most beautiful historic colonial city, called the Pearl of the Caribbean. How true! The historic center captivates with its white, yellow and ocher palaces, balconies, courtyards lined with palm trees, churches and monasteries, museums, theaters and chic restaurants and bars. Brightly dressed women balance baskets full of tropical fruit on their heads. Carriages rattle through the streets. At night people dance to Latin American rhythms in front of the equestrian statue. Of course, a day at the beach is a must. We take the boat to an offshore island with a beautiful, tropical beach and enjoy swimming and chilling in the Caribbean Sea. Dressing appropriately for the mountains can make the difference between a pleasant trip and a really uncomfortable one. Clothing must provide the right degree of temperature, perspiration and be well ventilated. Preferably cotton clothing should be avoided, as in humid conditions they absorb body heat.

In general, the weather conditions in the Andes of South America can vary from day to day and even throughout the day. Therefore, clothing must be versatile.

What happens in the event of bad weather?

About the meteorological conditions of the climate, we try to organize the trips of each tour in the best season to have the best views and enjoy the selected trip but sometimes even in good season we can have bad weather, in this case on hiking or treks trips the complications are minimal, but when this happens during high-altitude climbing expeditions, the complications can become very difficult, that is why the bosses or leaders of the local guides must always make the most correct decision for the safety of our passengers, so we always recommend listening to the best advice from the local guide assigned for each tour. If you have any other questions please contact us. For calls or inquiries to this number: +51 943 081 066

Can I join a group?

We as a local company and connoisseurs of tours have departures on different dates. The best thing to do is to join a travel group to take care of your budget, and of course you can join our groups, but on trips like mountaineering we recommend going in small groups. To join a group, ask us for the dates and we will send you the necessary information to be able to join any of our trips.

Why go in a private trip: For trips whether trekking or high mountains, going privately is the most recommended option, but the costs are more expensive. So, if one joins a group, the prices will be more reasonable. In the mountains, the only disadvantage is if you are in a wall with another partner and if one of the participants gets tired or gets sick. In this case, you have to abort or cancel the summit and return together. For more information, contact us. We can schedule a call via WhatsApp to clarify all your questions.

In a mountain, for example, if 3 people go and one of the participants falls ill on the route, for security reasons they have to cancel or abort the summit or return all together. The same in a technical mountain if the climbing partner gets sick they all have to return, for these reasons sometimes it is better to go private only because for a single person the costs are more expensive for the same reason that the trip would already be private .
